Stoke, THE PILLIST.

A Little of Everything.

Three weeks until Christmas. "Growing Young" in Assembly hall Dec. 9th. Zielski Trio Club at Assembly hall to-morrow evening. If you have anything to buy or sell, try our want column. "High School Bulletin" will be found on 8th page this week. Hunters were numerous in this section of community Thanksgiving Day. Philip Taylor is janitor of the Young Men's Reading Association rooms. A year's subscription for THE STAR would be an excellent Christmas present. The monthly meeting of the Winslow township school directors was held at Frank's Tavern Saturday. Clarence A. Hines, a glass cutter of this place, has started a dancing school in the P. O. S. of A. hall at Rathmel. George Manfredo and Louisa Capileo were married at the home of the groom on Mabel street last Thursday by Squire E. Neff. You will be surprised at the result if you have anything to buy, sell or trade if you put an ad in our want column. One cent per word. There will be an entertainment and pie-social at the Sandy Valley school house on Saturday evening, Dec. 7th. Admission ten cents. In the absence of L. J. McEntire, secretary of town council, William Copping acted as secretary at the regular meeting held last evening. Next Monday evening Rev. W. P. Murray will lecture in Assembly hall. Subject, "Growing Young." Tickets on sale at Stoke's drug store. Jarvis Williams, the tonsorial artist, held the lucky number that drew the horse and buggy that was raffled off Thursday evening by F. L. Hill. All members of the W. R. C. are requested to attend the meeting on Friday evening of this week, as new officers will be elected that evening. There will be a meeting of the Reynoldsville Temperance Union in Salvation Army hall Dec. 10 at 8 o'clock. There will be an election of new officers. "Old Arkansaw," the melodrama played at the Reynolds opera house last night, pleased the large audience. The company is a good one.

Herman Guthrie, a promising young man of this place, is clerking in H. Alex Stoke's drug store with the intention of becoming a physician in the course of time. E. C. Lewis and Charles Dunkle, who were out deer hunting, returned home Saturday. Dunkle shot a large buck, which was in the cooler at Frank's Tavern yesterday. The Zielski Trio Club of Buffalo will appear at Assembly hall to-morrow, Thursday evening, December 5th. Admission 25 and 35 cents. Tickets on sale at Stoke's drug store. A. B. Weed, who is now a train dispatcher on the River Division of P. R. R., in the dispatchers' office in Pittsburgh, moved to Oakmont this week, where he has bought a fine residence. The "Down and Up" comedy company was greeted with a packed house last Wednesday night, and everybody enjoyed the show. Two of the players were sick and could not play their parts. A. D. Mead, wholesale liquor dealer of Falls Creek, died suddenly at Johnsonburg about 4 o'clock a. m. Monday from apoplexy. Mr. Mead had gone to Johnsonburg to spend Sunday with a nephew. Reserved seat tickets for the Rogers-Grilley entertainment, second number on the public school lecture course, will be on sale at Stoke's drug store at 8:00 a. m. next Saturday, December 7th. Lawrence J. McEntire went to Philadelphia Monday night to attend the Grand Lodge of F. and A. M., which is held in that city to-day. Mr. McEntire is a delegate from the Masonic lodge of Reynoldsville. John B. Hughes, of Falls Creek, was struck by the Ridgway & Clearfield passenger train in the railroad yard at Falls Creek Saturday and had one leg crushed. The doctors amputated the leg below the knee. James T. Evans, who was an employe in the J. & C. C. & I. Co. office at this place for some time, has accepted the position of book-keeper for the Reynoldsville Woolen Company. Mr. Evans took his new position Monday. A petition was presented to the town council last night requesting that ordinance No. 42, prohibiting coasting and skating on sidewalks, be strictly enforced. We mention this so that the boys and girls may take warning and not violate this ordinance. We have been informed that C. B. French, formerly an insurance agent in this place, who went to the Klondyke several years ago, has sold one or two claims for $12,000 and has five rich claims left. Mr. French expects to visit this section next spring. Bernard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Horn, died at 8:00 p. m. Sunday, December 1st, 1901, from membranous croup. The child was sick four days. Bernard would have been two years old the 9th of this month. Funeral service was held at residence of parents at 1:30 p. m. yesterday, conducted by Rev. J. C. McEntire. Interment in Smith cemetery. Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Herpel entertained a number of friends last Wednesday evening, all of whom, with one or two exceptions, were Masons and their wives, those who attended the Knight Templar convale at Louisville this year and those who expect to attend the Knight Templar convale at San Francisco next year. Elegant refreshments were served. Union Thanksgiving services were held in the Baptist church at 10:30 a. m. Thursday. The sermon was preached by Rev. W. Frank Reber, pastor of the Presbyterian church. The attendance was not as large as it should have been. Too many christian people in this place think more about eating a big dinner Thanksgiving than they do about attending religious service that day. J. J. Hogan, who has taken charge of the Prudential Insurance Company's business in Reynoldsville and surrounding community, with office in the Syndicate building, will move his family from Phillipsburg to West Reynoldsville next week. Mr. Logan will go to Phillipsburg to-morrow to get his household goods ready for shipment. Mr. Logan has been in the employ of the Prudential Co. eight years. Lawyer C. Mitchell, who owns a farm a few miles out from Reynoldsville, has had six car loads of lime put on his farm within a year, and we have been informed that it is now an excellent farm. John M. Sypshirt, who is certainly a hustler, is farming for Mr. Mitchell. John is a hard worker and an experienced farmer, and Mr. Mitchell is fortunate in getting John to do his farming. Rev. R. N. Glass, an Italian Baptist minister of Baltimore, Md., who has been working among his fellow countrymen at Falls Creek, has been meeting with good success. Sunday evening Rev. Glass baptised four Italians in the Reynoldsville Baptist church in the presence of a large congregation. Rev. Glass will go from Falls Creek to Providence, R. I., to labor two or three months and will then return to Falls Creek and take up the work again. He is an earnest worker.

Shooting Gallery. A. B. Brown has opened a shooting gallery in the basement of the Syndicate building and is offering good prizes for the best marksmanship. Hopkins Mill Shut Down. Contract About Finished. Henry Noah Hall, who has been running a saw mill on the Prescott tract of timber land near Rathmel two years, will finish his contract in a short time. It is Mr. Hall's intention now to go to North Carolina the first of the coming year to engage in the lumber business. Trio Club. Thursday evening of this week the Zielski Trio Club of Buffalo, N. Y., will give one of their excellent entertainments at Assembly hall. The Trio has been commended everywhere as one of the best in the country. Admission 25 and 35 cents. Tickets on sale at Stoke's. "Mother" Jones Friday Night. "Mother" Jones, of Chicago, organizer for the U. M. W. of A., will deliver an address in Centennial hall Friday evening of this week, December 6th, in the interests of the Trades Unions of Reynoldsville. Everybody is invited to attend this meeting, as it will be a public meeting. Hall Won the Suit. A few months ago Burgess Mitchell fined C. R. Hall $300.00 for erecting a frame barn within the fire limits and Mr. Hall refused to pay the fine, claiming at the time that the barn did not belong to him, that it was his wife's property. The case was tried in the Jefferson county court last week and Mr. Hall won the suit on the fact that the barn does not belong to him. Fire at Falls Creek. Falls Creek was visited with a $9,000 fire early Monday morning. The double dwelling house of A. Startzell and the dwelling of Mrs. Sarah Carrier, A. G. Hons' store, stock and household goods were burned, besides one or two other buildings. A. E. Dunn's new building was damaged to the extent of $250.00. Mr. Dunn was formerly a hardware merchant of this place. Mad-dog in Town Yesterday. Frank Rodgers' dog had been acting strange a day or two and yesterday the canine showed unmistakable signs of having hydrophobia and he ran through the streets snapping at people and dogs. He did not bite any person, but he did bite several dogs. When it was learned that the dog was mad an effort was made to find him to kill him, but the dog had not been found last evening. "Growing Young." Monday evening, December 9th, Rev. W. P. Murray, of Dunkirk, N. Y., who was pastor of the Reynoldsville M. E. church one year, about nine years ago, will lecture in Assembly hall on "Growing Young." Rev. Murray is a bright, witty and eloquent talker and those who go to hear him will hear an excellent lecture. Tickets 20 cents; on sale at Stoke's drug store. This is the third number on the M. E. lecture course. Don't miss it. Married in New York State. Last Thursday Charles Deeter and Miss Ella Grieks, two young people of this place, hid away to Limestone, N. Y., where a short ceremony was performed by a gentleman invested with power to change two into one, and Friday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Deeter returned to this place. A wedding supper was served at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Samuel Williams. Charles and Ella have the best wishes of their numerous friends for a pleasant journey over the matrimonial sea together. Macaroni Factory. Carmine Marinero, a merchant at Big Soldier, expects to organize a stock company and erect a large macaroni factory near the glass plant at this place. The plant will be large enough to give employment to at least one hundred men, but it is the intention to start the factory with about 30 men and increase the help as the business increases. The building will be of brick. It is Mr. Marinero's intention to have everything in readiness to begin the erection of the building early next spring. Julia Brennan Died Suddenly. Julia Brennan, aged 17 years and 10 months, daughter of John Brennan, died Sunday, December 1, 1901, at 11:13 a. m. from rheumatism of the heart. Julia had been suffering with rheumatism about ten days, but her case was not considered dangerous until Sunday morning. Funeral services will be held in the Catholic church at 9:00 a. m. to-day, and body will be buried in the Catholic cemetery beside her mother, who died seven years ago. Julia was a bright and pleasant young lady and had many friends in town. Some of the young ladies of the Catholic church furnished a beautiful out-flower design of a harp.

MIRACULOUS ESCAPE. James Foltz was Caught in the Slack Elevator at Big Soldier. James Foltz, of Worth street, a carpenter in the employ of the J. & C. C. & I. Co. at Big Soldier mine, had a narrow and miraculous escape from instant death Wednesday evening while at work. He was so badly injured that he was unconscious for twelve hours. Foltz was fixing a chain on the slack elevator, on which the slack is hoisted up to the crusher, and while thus engaged the elevator was started suddenly without Foltz having any warning that it would start and he fell head first into one of the pockets and was carried up the elevator. At the top, where the buckets or pockets start down the other way, there is a large beam and Foltz was caught between the elevator and beam and was terribly crushed, but had he gotten passed the beam he would have fallen a distance of about sixty feet, which would have meant instant death. His head was so badly crushed that his eyes were almost bulging out of their sockets, one rib on left side, over the heart, was broken loose from breast bone and four ribs on his right side were broken loose from back bone. There was very little hopes at first of Mr. Foltz recovering from the serious injuries received, but he is getting better slowly and Dr. Bowser, the attending physician, said yesterday that he would get well. Hotel Belpap to Change Hands. Several weeks ago mention was made in THE STAR that M. Algeire, of Brookville, had bought Hotel Belpap property from Deible Bros., of this place, and now there is to be a change in proprietors. W. W. Wiley, former proprietor of Hotel Imperial, is to become proprietor of the Belpap about the middle of February. The hotel will be repainted and repapered on interior and a new porch will be built on front of hotel and the exterior of hotel will be given a new coat of paint. Mr. Wiley is genial enough to make a good proprietor. Frank Deltz, who has been proprietor of Hotel Belpap three years, has not yet decided what he will do when he gives up Hotel Belpap. Rogers-Grilley Recital. The Rogers-Grilley Recital in the opera house last evening was thoroughly enjoyed by a large audience. Mr. Rogers is a very skillful performer on the harp, and he delighted all with his excellent renditions. His ability to deliver dramatic as well as humorous selections is unequalled.—Morristown (Pa.) Herald. At Assembly hall, December 12. Have You Two Hairs? A little five-year-old of Grant street was watching her grandmother comb her hair one day last week, and when the little tot saw her grandmother pick up a switch to put on the said: "Oh, grandma, have you two hairs? NEW TRIAL REFUSED. Ernest R. Groves Gets Five Years and Six Months in the Penitentiary. Ernest R. Groves, who was tried at the last term of Jefferson county court for the crime of murdering his father, and who was found guilty of voluntary manslaughter by the jury, was sentenced last Thursday by Judge John W. Reed to a term of five years and six months in the Western Penitentiary. He was taken to the penitentiary yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Chesnut. An application had been made for a new trial, but after hearing the arguments for new trial, Judge Reed refused to grant it. Below we publish in full what Judge Reed said to Ernest Groves in open court before pronouncing his sentence: By the Court:—Ernest R. Groves stand up. What have you to say, if anything, why the sentence of the law should not be passed upon you? After a long and exhaustive trial, in which your every right was jealously guarded by able and learned counsel, the jury has found you guilty of voluntary manslaughter. Upon the trial all reasonable doubts were resolved in your favor by the court, and I am satisfied they were so resolved by the jury. The Commonwealth offered to prove certain statements made by your father, after he had been carried into the house, which strongly tended to corroborate the theory that you struck your father on the head roof. These statements, made by your father, were excluded from the consideration of the jury because the court was not satisfied they were made in view of approaching death, or in a conscious condition of mind that death was inevitable. Possibly they were admissible as a part of the res gestae, but you were given the benefit of the doubt and they were excluded. The same may be said of every doubtful question relative to the admission of evidence upon the trial of the case. In the determination of the case by the jury, they gave you the benefit of every reasonable doubt regarding the degree of the crime committed, and found you guilty of the lowest grade of crime covered by the indictment exhibited against you. The facts and circumstances in evidence impress the mind with an abiding conviction that you were in some way instrumental in causing the death of your father. They evidently so impressed the jury, and the court confesses to the same impression. The reasonable doubt in the case pertains rather to the degree of guilt than that no guilt at all exists. If you are an entirely innocent man, and have been made the victim of a fortuitous state of facts and circumstances portending guilt, it is unfortunate indeed, and in that event I cannot believe otherwise than that the Judge of judges will eventually overrule it all for your good if you will but trust Him. If you are guilty, then I am persuaded that the punishment which the law imposes will be the least that you will suffer by reason of your offense. It is with sorrow and regret that I pronounce upon you the sentence of the law, and in doing so I am inclined to give you the benefit of every extenuating fact and circumstance disclosed upon trial of the case. To pass upon you, however, a light or trivial sentence would be to nullify the verdict of the jury and to bring the administration of justice into disrepute. If innocent you should go free, if guilty, as determined by the verdict of the jury, the sentence should in some measure at least be commensurate with the offense committed. I deem the sentence which I am about to pass an extremely merciful one. And now, November 28th, 1901, the court sentences the defendant, Ernest R. Groves, to pay a fine of one dollar to the Commonwealth, pay the costs of prosecution, and undergo an imprisonment at labor in the Western Penitentiary, of Pennsylvania, (situated in the city and county of Allegheny) for and during the period of five years and six months, there to be kept, clothed, fed and treated as the law directs, and stand committed until this sentence is complied with.
